
Think Green: Art doesn't have to cost the planet

Friday 7th February 2020

National Army Museum, London SW3 4HT

13.00 Registration Tea/ Coffee will be served

13.30 Chairs Address, David Packer, UKRG Chair

13.35 Welcome, National Army Museum, Terri Dendy, Head of Collections Standards & Care

13.45 Can we cut it? Manchester Museums Partnership's Response to the Climate Emergency. Phillippa Milner, Senior Gallery Registrar, Manchester Art Gallery and Gillian Smithson, Registrar, The Whitworth & Manchester Museum, The University of Manchester.

An unflinching discussion on the realities of reducing the carbon footprint of exhibitions and loans in museums and galleries.

14.15 Towards sustainable shipping. Simon Sheffield, Executive Chairman of Martinspeed Ltd.

How can private sector responsibility help reach the 2050 government zero carbon emissions target? Simon will talk about initiatives that shipping companies can offer for recycling, vehicle upgrading, paperless environments and energy efficiency. The talk will raise the question of how we might standardise the measurement and offsetting of carbon emissions produced in the shipping of exhibitions.

14.45 Resource-sharing & the circular economy at the V&A. Zoë Louizos, Exhibitions Manager, V&A

Zoe will outline the V&A's initiatives to reuse, upcycle and recycle exhibition and transport materials in collaboration with local and community projects, other museums and the wider creative community.

15.15 Break Tea/Coffee and biscuits will be served

15.55 Building a Better Box. Andrew Stramentov, CEO and Founder of ROKBOX

Why does art shipping need to change? Andrew will talk about why ROKBOX was founded, how sustainability issues led its design and development and how those same issues will dictate the movement of artworks around the globe in the new creative ecology.

16.25 Sustainable touring exhibitions, current practices at the Science Museum Group. Emily Cronin, Partnerships Manager, Cultural & Commercial Partnerships, Science Museum Group.

In this session Emily will present on what the Science Museum Group is currently doing to make their touring exhibitions sustainable, providing examples of current touring exhibitions and general Group-wide practices for touring programmes.

16.35 Sharing sustainable practice. Sustainable Exhibitions for Museums. Zoë Louizos, Exhibitions Manager, V&A and Nadine Loach, Registrar, Science Museum Group

Looking for the latest resources on sustainable exhibition design? Want to share methodology for measuring your museum’s carbon footprint? SEFM (Sustainable Exhibitions for Museums) is re-launching and we want to discover the best platform for sharing honest, useful advice and support towards more sustainable practice in museums. Please get in touch with your resources, case studies and ideas for the future of the network. <https://www.sustainable-exhibitions.co.uk/>

17.00 ARCS update, Hannah Kauffman and Jenny Foot

17.15 CEN update, Jen Kaines

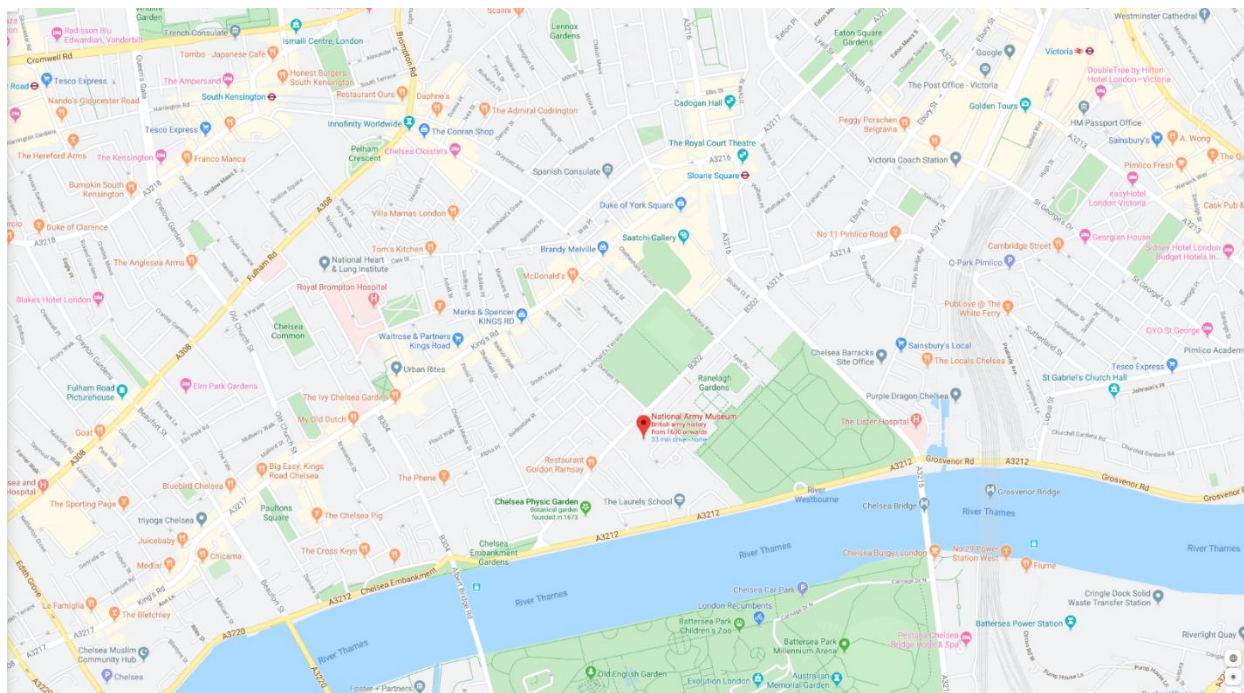

17.25 Chairs Close, David Packer, UKRG Chair

17.30 - 19.30 Drinks reception at the Atrium

For those happy to continue networking, a space is booked from 19.30 at The Cooper’s Arms under UK Registrars Group. Address: 87 Flood Street, Chelsea, SW3 5TB

With special thanks to our host, National Army Museum!

Getting to National Army Museum

By Tube:

Sloane Square: 11 min walk
 Victoria Station: 20 min walk

By bus: 9min from Victoria Coach Station, Stop V